THE CITY.

Never was the verity of an adage more clearly demonstrated than was yesterday that which says, "clouds and darkness are the friends of the Democracy; a bright sun and clear sky will bring fortune to their opponents." The polls were opened as the genial sun rose clear as a bell, and with it rose the hopes of the Republican managers throughout the city. Quite early the voters appeared at the polls, and without trouble, annoying delay or provoking challenge, deposited each his ballot and retired. So signal a victory is rarely won as that gained by the believers in the efficacy of the Registry Law. Its beneficial influence was felt at every poll and by every inspector; the labors of the officials were wonderfully lightened, the delay so vexatious to business men was entirely obviated, frauds were effectually guarded against, and peace, quiet and good order reigned throughout the borders of a city, whose election days have been memorable for rows and riots since their earliest date.

It is fair to state that the

of the day was very much like the handle of a jug—all on one side. The rum-shops didn't do much more than half their ordinary election day's work, for the very good reason that their patrons who desire to vote often, as well as early, and who need the inspiration of whisky and gin for that somewhat risky experiment, were debarred from any such little games by the rigid enforcement of the Registry Law, and the accuracy of check kept by the watchful and vigilant Republican officials. Without rum it would be difficult, under any circumstances, to arouse much enthusiasm in the classes upon whom the Slocum men relied for support; and when to the absence of this stimulant was added the almost certain prospect of defeat, what wonder was it that even the Bloody Sixth was quiet, still and entirely decorous?

On the contrary the Republicans, having from the first felt certain of success, and knowing that the only party which would care to put in fraudulent votes, was completely embarrassed by the check of the registration, were jubilant when the polls opened, enthusiastic as the day progressed, and sobered by the fullness of their joy when the sun went down, insuring them so great and complete a triumph. The accounts furnished by our reporters, and by the police, unite in the statement that the more orderly and reputable citizens voted this year in greater numbers than usual, while the voting was done much more rapidly, and with less hindrance, than ever.

is, of course, immoral and entirely objectionable; nevertheless, there is always a great deal of it in this city on occasions of this kind. The Democracy were not disposed to venture much on the State result, but were sanguinely reckless in attempting to bet on the city vote for State officers. Some offered $100 to $80 on a Slocum majority of 35,000, with plenty of takers; others offered $100 to $90 on 30,000, but the more common bet was $100 to $100 on 20,000 to 30,000, as the number might be decided. Of course, bets on the Senatorial candidates were more wild, and were influenced more by personal preference. Mr. FIELDS was largely backed by a well-known gambler, who offered, with much ostentation, to bet $10,000 to $5,000 that "Tom's seat was good for him" in the next Senate. Mr. BEN. WOOD'S friends were bountifully supplied with funds from some mysterious source, (they certainly never had so much before,) and offered to make the most extravagant bets in favor of the success of the "gentleman farmer" of the Daily News. With what good judgment these offers were made, the following results, unalterable as fate, very clearly indicate.

In the First Ward there was, during the entire day, the dullest and most monotonous routine alone. Not a fight, not a squabble, not even a cross look was observed in the ward. The somewhat startling fact, however, is on record, that while at the Presidential election MCCLELLAN received 2,162 votes out of 2,378 votes cast, to-day there are but 1,801 in all registered. Comment is unnecessary.

In the Second Ward the officials had a very easy time of it. So far as we could see, their duties consisted in warming their heels by a well-fed box-stove. The entire vote as registered is but 380, although MCCLELLAN managed to receive 524. The monotony of the occasion was somewhat marred by a little fisticuff row between THOS. MCCAULEY and JOHN MURPHY, two patriotic guardians of ticket booths, who deemed it a fitting occasion to indulge belligerently. They were instantly taken to the station-house.

The Third Ward was wonderfully dull even for it. The vote at the Presidential election was 727, the registered vote 647. The people seemed to manifest more interest and enthusiasm than in either of the other down-town wards; but the good old days of clubs and stones, cracked heads and bloody bones are past, and quiet reigns where once were disturbance and disorder.

In the Fourth Ward, notwithstanding the inviting weather, voters came forward slowly; and were it not for the attractive display of posters and policemen at the several polling places, one might have fancied the election in this ward to have been adjourned sine die. About noon, however, there were evidences of more vigor, and at 2 o'clock fully two-thirds of the registered number had deposited their votes.

There was considerable enthusiasm for BURNS as Senator, opposed by WOOD and BRYANT, the former eliciting the Irish vote freely as a "soldier who deserved a turn." With the exception of a couple of unimportant rows, where the "last resort" had been appealed to to decide a slight difference of opinion, the polling in this ward closed peaceably. During the day we noticed levies being made by the non-voting community on neglected ash-barrels, resulting in a display of cheap fireworks when the darkness set in. As the night promised to be a cold one, even the "guardians of the nocturnal hours" seemed to appreciate the more than usually appropriate rejoicing of the youngsters, warming their white-gloved fingers and their batons in a patronizing way over the burning staves.

In the Fifth Ward the quiet of a New-England Sabbath reigned supreme. The people voted solid, every man nearly whose name was on the list being sought out and taken to the polls, if by any accident by 2 o'clock his vote was not in and his name checked off.

In the Sixth Ward—the ward of ancient battle, whose rallying cry was "Blud, be jabers, and hooray for the Dimicratic ticket"—there was great activity, but not much business doing, the activity being confined to self-sacrificing individuals at the doors of the polls or along the footpath, who, desirous of your spiritual and temporal welfare, would teach you how to vote. The usual number of youths hung around the engine-houses, whose nervous eye-lids gave evidence of their having been up all night, doubtless with the patriotic desire of voting early, and, perhaps, often. In this, as in the Fifth Ward, the main point at issue was whether or no the Hon. BEN. WOOD should be permitted to take his seat in the Albanian chair, or whether he should be content with his cane-bottomed arrangement in his little back office. Money was plenty, bets were numerous, BENJAMIN'S friends were enthusiastic and vociferous, and all that sort of thing, but then, in spite of all that, they could vote only once at a time, and that rather bothered them.

The "Old Seventh," so proverbial for energy and pluck on election day, and the residence of so many of our leading politicians, was not marked yesterday by anything peculiar. Everything seemed sombre and sad—the polling places were scarcely discernible, hidden away behind a tailor's "goose" or a barber's pole, and many of the voters were in literal ignorance of their whereabouts. There were no disturbances and the duties of the police were nominal.

In the Eighth Ward the earlier hours but little was done of any account. Nine o'clock, however, brought out the reluctants, and polling went on vigorously to the close. More than half of the names registered had voted at 1 o'clock, and it was believed that in this ward the number polled will be close up to that registered. The old trick of borrowing a neighbor's name was tried successfully in the Third District—an individual polling early in the morning as JOHN ROUGH turns out not to be a rough at all, the real Simon Pure presenting himself in the course of the day. On the refusal of the Inspector to receive his vote, "Simon" was naturally indignant, and made a glowing speech on his own and the rights of citizens generally. Backed by a number of his friends, who rushed in, prepared to swear to any extent as to his identity, he gave evidence of pugnacious intentions, which occasioned the removal, by an obdurate policeman, of himself, his friends and his indignation. It is to be hoped that he established his right to the franchise before the close of the day, and that the rogue who "stole his good name" will meet with the roundsman who is looking for him. With this single exception the election in this ward closed without incident.

The Ninth Ward is one of the best behaved in this city. The people are mostly Americans by birth, and intensely so in feeling. About 6,600 voters are registered, against an aggregate poll last year of 7,332. A hasty survey of the field showed that there were no crowds at the polls, and but for the sign-post policemen, who guarded the doors, a stranger would hardly suspect that election was in progress. Up to 11 o'clock the flow of ballots was steady and encouraging, and in most districts there were more votes in than usual at the same hour. The impression during the day was that the Republicans were doing splendidly, while the other side were quite listless and disheartened. We need hardly add that perfect order and quiet prevailed.

The Inspectors in the Tenth Ward, as a body, had a hard time of it. In some of the polling places there were no stoves nor fires of any kind, and it was no joke to stand all day long in a cold room with a chilly wind blowing in continually. There was no trouble of any sort or kind; everything passed off quietly and peaceably.

In the Eleventh Ward matters moved on quietly and without the aid of the gentlemen in blue, brass and locust. The voters turned out very early, many being at the polls when the books and boxes were opened. Up to 11:30 the vote ran nearly up to one-half the number registered, and during the hour of noon the vote quickened to nearly three-fourths, every station reporting a two-third vote. The Democratic vote was not anything like that cast last Fall. The State vote for the ward was comparatively light, many voters omitting the State ticket. After 1 o'clock the polling slackened, and it was very difficult thereafter to find any free-born American citizen in the ward who had not done his duty. A man named MARTIN COYNE was arrested at the Thirteenth District of this ward for illegal voting by Officer PRONT. He was taken to the station-house and committed for examination.

In the Twelfth and Thirteenth Wards, although the day was bitterly cold, and seemed there colder than anywhere else, the citizens took a very lively interest in the election. All was quiet, however. An incident occurred in the Thirteenth Ward which would seem to test the provisions of the late Registry Law. A man was registered in the Sixth District, through the fault of the Inspectors, who discovered that he resided in the Fifth District, and gave him a certificate to that effect, directed to the Inspectors of the Fifth District, but the latter refused his vote. According to a strict reading of the law, the man had not been registered—virtually he had been. Despite the interest taken by many of the leading citizens in these wards, there was a noticeable despondency among the hangers-on at the polls, the Democracy being in the ascendant.

The Fourteenth was, if possible, less cheerful even than its neighboring wards. Notwithstanding the brightness of the day, there seemed to be something in the air in all this ancient Democratic region affecting the spirits of the mature male population with the utmost gloom. There did not seem to be enough even of the old vim to get up one illegal vote. Our Irish fellow-citizens, usually "up and at it," dropped slowly into the poll, as they would into a neighbor's wake, to take a look at the corpse and go home again. Till 3 o'clock the utmost quiet prevailed throughout the ward—the small hours of the day bringing with them to the polls a trifle more vigor than characterized them in the morning, and there was fair reason to hope that this neighborhood, not in high repute with the lovers of peace, would do itself credit for once, when, unhappily, one of those scenes occurred, much more characteristic of low life in England than of the lowest in our city—the cowardly knife being introduced into an otherwise remarkably peaceful election.

A MURDER.

In a liquor-store at the corner of Mulberry and Prince a quarrel arose amongst a knot of drinkers, of course as to the respective merits of their men, blows being resorted to to decide the difference of opinion. FINNERTY and a brother-in-law named GILMORE interfered, with peace-making intentions, ending in the infliction of two dangerous stabs from a knife on the person of GILMORE at the hands of one THOS. S. COLTON. COLTON made good his escape into one of the foul dens in the neighborhood, but, after an exciting chase of over an hour, was secured by Officer MULLIGAN and Roundsman COLES. From these he made desperate efforts to escape, but being rather severely handled was brought to the Station, where, on hearing of the case, he was locked up to appear before Judge DOWLING in the morning.

Accompanied by an officer we went to see the wounded man, whom we found in FINNERTY'S, under the care of Staff-Surgeon POOLE, from whom we learned that his situation was highly critical. While there the prisioner was brought from the precinct and before the unfortunate man, who at once identified him. The first stab was given in the wrist of the right hand, it is feared severing the artery; the second struck the third rib, glancing downward, inflicting a huge gash, from which the poor fellow bled profusely. Before we left the surgeon had succeeded in stopping the flow of blood from the side, and in sewing the long cut in the wrist. The appearance of the wounded man is sufficiently ghastly to suggest grave doubts of his recovery. This was the only trouble in the ward throughout the day, and is but the natural outgrowth of the vice which in every form seems rampant in the neighborhood of the scene.

The Fifteenth Ward, a sometime forlorn hope and city of refuge of the old Whig party, was in holiday soberness yesterday. There was a tone of Sunday-go-to-meeting in the air; many of their few shops were shut, the public haunts were closed, or at most but furtively open, and a sober calm settled around Washington and Union squares. Voting was rather light in some sections, but, on the whole, something better than ordinary. Mr. LENT ran bravely in this (his own) ward. There was not the least "noise and confusion," but everybody seemed satisfied for once with quiet. A careful estimate showed that about half the registered voters had cast their ballots before noon.

In the Sixteenth Ward everything was quiet. So dull and uninteresting an election-day is not within the recollection of the oldest inhabitant. No attempts were made at illegal voting, nary a drunken man was visible, and nothing occurred to relieve the monotony of a day that is generally put down as being pretty lively. Voters came in early, deposited their votes, and wended their way to their various places of business. At 11 o'clock full one-half of the registered vote had been deposited, and after that time the inspectors had plenty of time to lounge around, take a drink, and discuss the chances of their respective candidates.

The voters of the Seventeenth Ward went early to the polls, full one-half the registered votes being deposited by 10 o'clock. As usual with working-men, the majority voted early, and those who did not came in during the dinner-hour. By 1 o'clock the total vote cast was over half the number registered. The cold weather kept idlers away from the polls, and the traditional groups of loungers round the booths was confined to those on duty for the rival candidates. The unterrified seem puzzled at the unprecedented number of ballots left on their hands, and evidently feel downhearted over the prospect. The Democratic vote of this ward will be considerably less than that cast for MCCLELLAN was. PATRICK COIL, JOHN FARRELL and PATRICK J. HANLEY were arrested for fighting, but were discharged by Justice SHANDLEY. WM. SCROGIE was arrested for assault and battery, and held for examination. PATRICK MADDEN was arrested for fighting, and held for examination. JOHN ADAMSON attempted to shoot a man, and was committed by Justice SHANDLEY. There were no arrests for illegal voting, and the ward generally was quiet.

By 11 o'clock in the morning, one-third of the registered vote had been polled in the Eighteenth Ward. The Democratic vote was very heavy. The removal of the polling places from liquor-stores made a great difference in the order maintained at the polls. There is less drunkenness in this ward than has ever been known before. Although the vote was large, there was not much interest manifested in the result by politicians, and but few persons were in attendance at the polling. No arrests were made for disorderly conduct or fraudulent voting.

In the Nineteenth Ward there was nothing of note beyond the absolute good order which prevailed. The Irish voters as a rule talked loudly for MURPHY; how they voted we don't know.

In the Twentieth Ward everything went along very smoothly during the morning, and the Inspectors were kept quite busy up to 12 o'clock. Voters came in rapidly, and no trouble was experienced from the drunken crowds that usually surround the polls at a State election. In the afternoon the monotony was relieved by a slight brush between the friends of CHARLICK and FREAR, who came up from the lower districts bent on mischief. Capt. WALLING dispatched half-a-dozen of his reserve force to quell the disturbance, which they did very effectually. On their way they fell in with a similar force from the Twenty-ninth Precinct, who were on the same errand. They found the belligerents at the corner of Thirty-first-street and Nin'h-avenue, where they had congregated, determined to have a little game to themselves. Just then the four-horse stage, containing the combined police force, arrived at the scene of conflict, and in a few minutes they took a hand in the game and turned up clubs as trumps. This was too much for the fighting element, and they were quickly dispersed, leaving several wounded on the field.

In the Twenty-first Ward a disturbance occurred in the morning, during which one man was stabbed. The friends of ALEXANDER WARD put up posters at the polling places denying that he had withdrawn from the canvass. This caused considerable excitement at the time, and raised the hopes of Mr. MURPHY'S friends.

In the Twenty-second Ward only one item of interest occurred, and this happened in the Second District, at No. 209 West Forty-first-street. Here PAT MCDONNELL and PETER LYNCH became engaged in a discussion which ended by MCDONNELL, who is a well-known character, calling LYNCH, a returned soldier, by an opprobrious name. LYNCH advanced on MCDONNELL to strike him, when the latter drew a revolver and attempted to shoot him, but was prevented. One of the Inspectors (Mr. MORRISSEY) saw the occurrence and ordered an officer to arrest MCDONNELL, which he did, when his friends interfered, and MCDONNELL went his way. There were two policemen present, and the one who made the arrest was No. 987.

From the foregoing résumé it will be seen that the election passed off more quietly and pleasantly than any of its predecessors. There were many during the day and at night which would indicate the humors of the day, but space precludes their publication. The fact of the business is, that the returns were so tremendously one-sided that there was no chance for quarreling or argument, and people retired early from the usual gathering places, satisfied or dissatisfied as the case might be, but beyond all doubt convinced.

THE REPUBLICANS

held no special jollification. The rooms of the State Central Committee at the Astor House were crowded with prominent men and politicians, to whom the telegraphic returns were announced. A great crowd gathered at the rooms of the Central Club, but they were refused admittance, and went off cheering.

TAMMANY HALL

was in a very queer mood last night. Those present were very quiet, only an occasional stamping betraying the impatience of the audience. At last the meeting was roused from its lethargy by the appearance of Capt. ISAIAH RYNDERS, who was received with a show of the ancient enthusiasm of Old Tammany. As soon as he could make himself heard the gallant Captain said: "Let me see who I can get to act as chairman. Where are all the Sachems? In times past we used to be up and doing; now Old Tammany has none so poor as to do her honor."

After some delay the Captain announced Hon. Mr. LEMY, of the Fourth Ward, as Chairman. The chair announced that the news from the State was cheering, and that Gen. SLOCUM was elected. He then introduced who addressed the meeting. He said: I am somewhat a stranger in Tammany Hall; the fact is, nearly every honest man has been driven out of Tammany Hall. My steps naturally led me toward the old wigwam to-night, for Tammany is to me what Mecca is to the Mohammedan. I love Tammany for the good she has done in the past, for then she always went for sound Democratic doctrines. But that was before certain parties got hold of her for base political purposes.

VOICE—"How about the Fenians?"

RYNDERS—Well, I am a Fenian myself, and when I come to that subject, I'll let you know my sentiments. [Here some disturbance broke out.] Oh, let him alone, he's a solid man; he's got some good solid whisky in him, that's all.

VOICE—"Captain, don't shake your head so much."

RYNDERS—My friend, if you hadn't opened your mouth no one would have known you was a fool. [Laughter.] It's one year since I was last in Tammany Hall; it's four years since I was ruled out. I hope it will be as the Chairman says—that we are emancipated from the rule of the nigger-worshiping, nigger-loving Black Republicans. [Here some disturbance rose in the body of the hall, amid cries of "Put him out!"] One good kick is worth a thousand words of civility to a man like that, and if I was near him I would give it him, too.

VOICE—"You're no Fenian."

RYNDENS—I'm an American, and a better Fenian than you are. You are one of the blowing set, who don't do anything. When Tammany Hall kept to pure Democratic principles, I kept with her; but when she went over to the Republicans, to defeat good Democrats, I quit the ranch. These men turned out the spoils to the Republicans, and it was no wonder that honest men quit them. Let Tammany Hall only get rid of the terrible load of corruption she carries, and be as good and pure as she was in the past, and all will be well. If she only does that, I am back again. Why was there no ratification meeting here this Fall? She might have got up one over the county ticket, at least. Now I want to say a few words about the conduct of Tammany toward DON CARLOS O'BRIEN BRYANT. He has been shamefully used. They have been treacherous. They should have told Mr. BRYANT that they could not command the Democratic vote in his district, and so let him save his money. I am opposed to such actions; it is like setting up a ten-pin, just to knock it down again. Mr. BRYANT sent $100 to the First Ward, and they sent it back again. He did the same with the Fourth Ward and to JIM HAYES, and the money was returned. Why didn't Tammany Hall do the same? [A VOICE—They wanted to elect FERNANDO WOOD.]

Here some returns were announced. In the Second Ward, SLOCUM'S majority was 75; in the Fourth Ward, 1,119; [cheers;] in the Fifteenth Ward, 129 for BARLOW. [Groans.] Democratic gains were claimed in Big Flats, Farmersville and Binghamton.

The Chairman proposed three cheers, which were feebly given, and some one wanted to give three more for Capt. RYNDERS, but no notice was taken of the proposition.

Mr. NESBIT wanted it understood that the Sixth Ward was all right. [Cheers.]

Capt. RYNDERS resumed his remarks: I do not want to abuse individuals in the Republican party. Some of them are honorable and high-souled men. I did not like their politics, and I was not mealy-mouthed about telling them so.

Here a messenger came in with the news that the Fourth Ward had gone 1,300 for SLOCUM. [Cheers.]

Capt. RYNDERS—The old Fourth Ward has proved true to its old traditions, and I am glad to be able to give her credit.

Returns from the Fourteenth Ward were then read: 2,100 for SLOCUM. [Cheers.] First Ward, 687 for SLOCUM; Seventh Ward, 1,931; Ninth Ward, 1,156; and Fifth Ward, 426 for SLOCUM.

"Now I'll go and get some more," said the messenger, and as he left the Captain commented upon the news.

Considerable confusion ensued, and the excitement was fast rising beyond control, when it was hushed by a motion to adjourn, which was the signal for a general move for the door.

AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

The arrangements at Police Headquarters for receiving election returns were never surpassed. The Superintendent's rooms were for the night surrendered exclusively to the representatives of the press, and the returns were announced to them by districts by the Superintendent of Police, who received the names and figures by messenger and by telegraph. Early in the evening many gentlemen who were curious to ascertain at the earliest moment the state of the vote applied for admission; only a few, however, were admitted. Among those to whom this favor was extended were Justice Joseph Dowling, Police Commissioners Thomas C. Acton and William McMurray, Assistant District-Attorney Robert C. Hutchings, Alderman Delamater, John Fitch, Esq., John E. Develin, Senator Murphy, Gen. Arthur, Shepherd Knapp, Chas. A. Stetson, Anson Herrick, and others. Later at night, the spacious rooms were densely thronged until the small hours of the morning, when the multitude gradually dispersed, leaving only the reporters and the policemen to gather the fragmentary details of the election.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The Coming Elections—The Candidates for Congress—Only One Can Take the Oath— he Gubernatorial Result Unimportant.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEWBERN, N. C., Monday, Oct. 6, 1865.

Affairs in North Carolina present a more puzzling appearance than the action of the recent State Convention would lead us to anticipate. That body, while it was composed of the leading men of the State, as regards ability, was not a true representation of the wishes of a majority of the people. It was chosen without a due consideration of the questions which were brought before it. The canvass in most of the counties was conducted without regard to principles or questions of State policy, and many of the delegates, owing their election to personal popularity, took their seats unpledged to anything; and, so far as their constituents were concerned, they were free to act and to vote as they thought best. In a few of the counties, the question of assuming the rebel war debt was debated, and candidates were elected and defeated on that issue. In Hyde County, the candidates offered themselves on the suffrage question, and, of course, the impartial suffrage effort was unsuccessful. As a general thing, men who, in the Southern acceptation of the term, were Union men—and it is proper to remark that there is a wide difference between the North and South on that point—were successful. From this action it would be a reasonable inference that the State at large would willingly submit to the will of the General Government. This, however, they have not done; for only one of the candidates for Congress now running can take the prescribed oath. This gentleman, Mr. LEHMAN, of the Newbern District, is a Northerner and a comparatively recent importation. In the Raleigh District, Col. J. P. H. RUSS may be able to strain his conscience enough to "swallow the pup," as the soldiers say; but he declined the Postmastership on account of his inability to do so. JOSIAH TURNER, an unpardoned member of the rebel Congress, is a fair representative of the opponents of the Holden clique; but in the ranks of his supporters are to be found many Union men, whose records are better than HOLDEN'S and the generality of Holdenites.

Gen. HOLDEN is too well known to require any extended notice of his record. Suffice it to say, that he signed the ordinance of secession and voted for it. His paper, the North Carolina Standard, advocated secession in 1856. In 1863 he became sore-headed, and has since that time been a bitter opponent of JEFF. DAVIS and his policy. I have failed to discover anything more to his credit than this opposition, and am afraid that the people at large have placed a false construction on that point, by considering it Unionism.

JONATHAN WORTH, his opponent, was VANCE'S State Treasurer, and is a quiet, unassuming man, who may be, as the Holdenites charge, a tool in the hands of the Secessionists; but his record is cleaner than that of the provisional incumbent, and I would not consider his defeat any indication that the Secessionists are in the ascendency, or that the President's policy is unpopular with the majority of the people. EX. VANCE, like DAVIS incumbent, would beat either HOLDEN or WORTH, if he could run to-day, and would administrate the affairs of the State with as much loyalty to the General Government. He learned a few lessons as to the strength of Federal power in the Old Capitol, while the other two gentlemen only know of its leniency by having received pardons.

The Holdenites very modestly claim that if their candidate is elected the State will be admitted, and vice versa. With equal assurance they claim that WORTH'S election would be equivalent to assumption of the war debt. As Gov. HOLDEN'S power to influence the action of Congress in admitting the North Carolina members is somewhat doubtful, it is most assuredly fair to charge that he has placed himself and his opponent in false positions, and as the constitutional convention finally disposed of the rebel war debt, by forever prohibiting legislation on that subject, there is but little ground for dispute on that point.

The election will take place on the 9th inst., and whatever the result is, President JOHNSON and the country need not trouble themselves. The policy of the administration, except in the matter of negro testimony, is well received and cordially approved by the people of North Carolina. There may be a few grumblers about the State debt, but as above stated, that subject has been finally disposed of, and negro testimony is a question which has not been, and will not be, discussed in the canvass as both candidates are opposed to it—at least they were five days since—I cannot vouch for them now—and it will be ignored altogether in the contest.

To sum the whole matter up, there is no question involved in the gubernatorial contest in North Carolina. Secessionists will vote for both candidates—probably more of them for WORTH than for HOLDEN, but they are both Andy Johnson men, and their supporters sustain his reconstruction policy, as far as Southerners generally do. The canvass, so far, has been violently personal, and has involved no discussion of principles. It will be close and the result is doubtful. E. P. B.

THE WRECKED STEAMER REPUBLIC.

Arrival of the Boat of the Chief Officer at Charleston.

From the Charleston News, Nov. 1.

Yesterday morning the steamer Gen. Hooker arrived in port, bringing twelve of the passengers and crew of the ill-fated Republic. The history of these people is truly distressing, they having suffered everything but death. The boat under the command of the chief officer, S. E. YOUNG, left the Republic just as she was going down, and in a few minutes swamped; but owing to the energy and coolness of those on board, the boat was cleared of water and kept head on the sea till daylight. By a singular good fortune, Capt. GEO. W. MCNAIR, late of the ship Inspector, was on board the boat, and as the chief officer was exhausted by his efforts to save the steamship, Capt. MCNAIR took the management of the boat, so as to give Mr. YOUNG some time to rest; and the passengers kept rowing with a desperation which only the fate before them could inspire. The demijohn containing the only water on board got broken before one drop of it was used—thus thirst, more terrible than anything that can be described, was added to their other calamities. The boat had no provisions except salt meat and ship bread, which got saturated with salt water, with the exception of three cans of preserved fruit. Three may be said to have saved the lives of the people in the boat, and were kept to the very last. On Thursday, every one having become so much exhausted that it was impossible to make headway by rowing, a table-cloth was found in the boat, and they extemporized a sail, and with that the boat was kept on her course to the westward, as well as could be done without sun and the stars to guide them. Thursday night was one of intense suffering, and insanity, the invariable result of exposure, want of sleep and thirst, began to exhibit itself. Friday morning came, and no sail, no land in sight. It was water—water everywhere. The imagination of all on the boat began to conjure up sights and sounds which were only imagination. Insanity was dawning upon every mind. At about 10 in the morning of Friday, a sail in the distance was discovered, and, as the breeze had died away, the sail in the boat was taken down, and the oars again assumed for a pull for life. They kept on for hours, but could not gain on the sail in the distance, and finally gave up. Having worked in the sun with all the energy possible so long, and yielding the chase in disappointment at last, the sensation of thirst now seemed, at this time, to be unendurable. Men's throats were swollen, their jaws set, and speech began to be difficult. As a last resort, the whole party jumped into the sea to bathe and absorb moisture externally. It seemed to allay the burning thirst. Soon another sail came in sight in the opposite direction, and, as a last effort, the boat was reversed and they began to pull for it. The sail proved to be the barkentine Horace Beals, from New-York, commanded by Capt. JOSEPH BLANKENSHIP, who picked them up at 6 o'clock P. M., after they had been in the water for fifty-one hours; and every thing that could be done for their comfort was done by Capt. BLANKENSHIP. They could not stand when they were hoisted upon his deck, but were soon restored by the use of stimulants and water. If ever a man was a nobleman by nature, who held his patent direct from his Maker, that man was Capt. JOSEPH BLANKENSHIP. The survivors cannot say too much in his praise. From the time they were taken on board till Sunday evening, they remained upon his ship, when the steamer Gen. Hooker came up and took them off, and brought them to this port yesterday morning.

The following is the list of persons saved: E. E. Young, Chief Officer of the Republic; Col. W. T. Nichols, first cabin; Major H. J. Nichols, first cabin; John E. Harlee, first cabin; Lieut. Louis V. Caziarc, first cabin; Capt. Geo. W. McNear, first cabin; Charles H. McNear, first cabin; Horace D. Ellsworth, first cabin; Ferdinand Muller, first cabin; John C. Potter, second cabin; James Cavana, fireman; John Maney, coal-passer.

A CARD.

The survivors of the steamship Republic, who escaped on the boat of the Chief Officer, E. E. YOUNG, hereby desire to express their profound gratitude to Capt. JOSEPH BLAKENSHIP, of the bark Horace Beals, who saved them from almost certain death, on the evening of Oct. 27, 1865, of the coast of South Carolina, and, refusing all compensation, used every means and effort in his power to restore them to health and strength, and entertained them on his ship till they were taken off by the steamer General Hooker, which had been sent in search of them. To a kind Providence, and to the kindly sympathy of all good men, we commend the fortunes of Capt. BLANKENSHIP, and bespeak for him a host of friends as good as he has proved to us.

THE TRAGEDY AT SANGERFIELD.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury in the Case of the Murderer of Wash. Loomis.

The following testimony was given before the coroner's jury at Waterville on Saturday:

Nellie A. Smith: My residence at present is at widow Loomis'; have resided there two years the 17th of last June; was acquainted with Geo. W. W. Loomis, deceased; was at Loomis' during Monday night last; I retired between eight and nine o'clock; did not go to sleep for about two hours after; I was awakened when Grove came home, a little past eleven; soon went to sleep again; was again awakened by a rap on the door of my bedroom; I guess somewhere about one or two; nearer one than two; some one outside the door called for Grove; he said Grove, I want to see you; Grove says, Yes, I will be there in a minute; there was another rap on the door and the person outside said, Come quick, I can't wait; Grove went to the door and opened it, (he had, in the meanwhile, dressed himself,) and I got up and followed him to the door; I saw Mr. Filkins; had his hand on Grove's shoulder; he said to Grove, I have come in the night to see you; Grove said, all right; there were two other men with Filkins; the door of our room opened into the kitchen chamber; Filkins had a light; I think he had a candle; the candle was in a tin candlestick; I think the candlestick belonged in the house; Filkins was not disguised at all; I know James Filkins; have known him over a year; I am positive this was James Filkins; I did not see any weapon in his hand at this time; I am not positive that I know either of the other men; I think one of the other men had a lantern; did not see that either of them had weapons; don't know as Filkins had any overcoat; if he had it was very light and thin; I think the other men had overcoats; were not much bundled up; had nothing like comforters or furs about their necks; one of them was a very large, portly man, very heavy black whiskers, and dressed in dark clothes; was between 30 and 40 years of age; both had on dark hats; can't say which had the lantern; the other was a short fellow, sandy complexion; think he had light, sandy whiskers on his chin; did not hear either of them speak; Grove and Filkins went down stairs together, Filkins still having Grove by the collar; I did not at that time think I knew either of them; I then went immediately down stairs into the middle kitchen; I heard Grove say he wanted to see Washington; Filkins said, you cannot see him, he is not there, I will see to you; they went into the back kitchen and closed the door; I heard Grove holler murder; I went to the door and opened it a little way; Filkins came to the door with his revolver in his hand, pointed it at me and said, "Come another step and I will shoot you; it is no place for you in this kitchen to-night," and closed the door; then I heard Grove cry, for God's sake, don't kill me; I went to the door again, opened the door and saw Filkins have Grove bent forward and pounding on his head with a revolver; the tall man came to the door, pushed me back and closed it; Cornelia was then coming out of the north room; I said to Cornelia, "They are murdering Grove in the back kitchen;" we pushed the door open—she and I; Grove was lying on the floor; Filkins was jumping on him; I heard Filkins say that he was dead and they would burn him; I turned and ran to call the folks: I went back again; Grove lay on the floor, burning; Cornelia and I ran to the door; Cornelia got there before I did; we pulled off from Grove two overcoats, and threw them into the fireplace; I can't say that the other two men were in the room when Filkins was jumping on Grove; I did not see the two men after the tall one closed the door; I think Filkins left the room just as I opened the door and saw Grove burning; Grove's head was on a bag of oats, and camphene or kerosene seemed to have been sprinkled on the bag and oats; after we extinguished the flames on Grove I went to him and spoke to him; I says to Grove: "Have they killed you dead?" He made a noise, so that I knew there was life in him; I then ran and got some spirits and poured them down him; Grove revived in a minute, got upon his feet and asked me for his hat; put his hat on and went out of the north-east door; he went up to the shanty where the horse was and unlocked the door; I did not go with him; he came back and said to me, "If you see any signs of fire run up and cut the halter and let the horse loose." He then came into the north end door, went out of the west door and part way down to the barn that was burning, and called to some one to bring a ladder, that the house was on fire; he helped to put the ladder up to the house; then he came into the west door, went out of the east door down toward the road and fainted away down by the fence, and when near the gate; John Mason and Mr. Bixby went down there and picked him up and carried him into the house and put him in the north end room, on a bed on the floor; in about three-quarters of an hour after this, Washington was found in the wood-shed, right behind the stove, lying on some old, loose shingles; I saw him while he lay there; Bixby found him; Bixby came into the house and told us he had found Washington; we went out and saw him; when I left the room to call the folks I left Cornelia in the room; when I passed through Bixby's room there were two men there in bed; don't know who they were; when I went down stairs from my room I went through Bixby's room and down the same stairs that Filkins and Grove went down.

The verdict of the jury in the Loomis case, was as follows: "That, according to the testimony given, George Washington W. Loomis came to his death by the hands of three or more persons, and that one of those persons was James L. Filkins."

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY IN HARTFORD.

A Man Murders his Wife and Then Cuts his Throat.

From the Hartford Times, Nov. 6.

A horrible occurrence took place on Lord's Hill, at a little past 9 o'clock last (Sunday) night, which casts a gloom over the community.

R. W. GREENE, Esq., an estimable citizen, late President of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, a gentleman of wealth and of unimpeachable character, killed his wife by cutting her throat with a razor, and then attempted to kill himself in the same way. Mrs. GREENE bled to death in the course of fifteen or twenty minutes, but Mr. GREENE, though the cuts upon his throat and arm were deep and dangerous, was alive at 2 P. M. to-day, and may possibly recover.

Mr. and Mrs. GREENE were alone in the house when the shocking deed was done, the other members of the family having gone to church.

Mrs. GREENE survived long enough to go to the front window and cry for help, and to say to Mr. KENNEDY and others who came in: "My husband has cut my throat," or "My husband has killed me," and also, "I was afraid all the evening to stay with him."

Through the courtesy of Dr. CRABTREE, the Coroner, we are enabled to publish the evidence given before the Coroner's Jury with accuracy.

Dr. CRABTREE also informs us that Mrs. GREENE was evidently reading when the act was committed, as a volume, the Knightly Soldier, was lying upon the table, the page at the seventh chapter, where the book was opened, being bloody; but she evidently turned the book over as her throat was cut, the cover of the book being bloody, but none of the leaves, except where the book was opened. Dr. CRABTREE found Mr. GREENE'S razor case on the desk in his chamber.

When found on the sofa, locked into a chamber, with his throat and arm cut, Mr. GREENE was able to speak. Considerable blood had flowed from his wounds, but not enough to weaken him very much or endanger his life. If he dies from his wounds, the result must be on account of inflammation, or some other cause than the loss of blood.

He had been out that evening at an early hour, but had changed his boots for slippers, and it is evident that he took out his razor, left the case on his desk, slipped down, approached his wife as her back was toward him, and cut her throat before she was ready aware of his presence.

He then went back to his room, locked himself in, and cut a gash in his own throat and another in his arm. When found he was lying quite still, and it was first thought he was dead. But Dr. BERESFORD dressed his wounds.

Policeman COWLES asked him—"Do you know what you have done?" A. "O, what shall I do?"

"Do you want to see Dr. RUSSELL?" A. "I don't know."

"Do you want to see Dr. BERESFORD?" A. "I don't know."

"Do you want to see Mr. ——?" A. "Yes." And a messenger was sent for Mr. ——.

A year ago last Spring the daughter of Mr. GREENE (Mrs. R. E. DAY) died. This affliction weighed heavily upon him, and he has never recovered from the gloom that the event cast over his mind. And recently he has imagined that he was coming to want, that his property was all gone, and he feared the consequences. He even went to dry goods and grocery stores and told the proprietors that they must not give credit to his family, as he was no longer able to pay such bills. Still he was quite wealthy. A few weeks since he resigned his office as President of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, and made some other arrangements that showed he was preparing for a close of his affairs. Still in his general appearance there did not seem to be a remarkable change, except that he was gloomy, and at times very much so, not being at all inclined to converse even with his own family. At the tea table last (Sunday) evening, his nephew says, he was quite reserved. He had been out walking with his son-in-law, Mr. DAY, and conversing upon the death of his daughter his business affairs, &c., and these subjects evidently preyed heavily upon his mind.

Dr. BERESFORD visited Mr. GREENE at a few minutes before 2 o'clock this afternoon. He reports that Mr. GREENE has rallied; his skin has become comfortably warm, and he is at present in a more favorable condition for recovery than he was at the doctor's previous visit.

THE EVIDENCE.

Dr. CRABTRE, the Coroner, summoned a jury, and the following evidence was taken:

Mary Johnson—The first witness sworn. She testified that in passing the house she heard a noise and cries of murder, and saw Mrs. Greene at the window; she went into the house behind Mr. Kennedy and assisted Mrs. Greene up stairs; she said, "I have been afraid to stay with my husband all the evening."

Dinah Foster corroborated the above testimony, and Robert Gibbs also testified substantially the same, only that he heard Mrs. Greene say, "my husband has cut my throat." Mr. S. T. Cummings also testified to the same, and at the request of some one went for Dr. Beresford.

Henry Kennedy was next called, and testified that he was returning home from church, and when in front of Mr. Greene's residence heard faint cries, which soon sounded more distinct, and he readily distinguished the word, "Murder;" looked toware the house, and saw Mrs. Greene standing at the window, which was open, and blood was streaming from her neck; I immediately went to the front door, opened it, and went into the hall; went to the front parlor door, but could not open it; then went to the back parlor door, which was open, and went into the parlor, and met Mrs. Greene returning from the window; took hold of her and asked what was the matter; she replied, "My husband has killed me;" I then asked her, "Where is he?" she replied, "O, you can't find him, he has fled;" I asked, "Is there no one here?" she answered, "No, my girls are all gone." A couple of colored women coming in, they took hold of Mrs. Greene to help her up stairs, and I went to search for Mr. Greene.

Dr. Beresford testified that, when I arrived there was some spasmodic action, but she had ceased to breathe and was dead. On examining her body I found that the external and internal jugular vein had been completely severed, and that the carotid artery was partly cut, either of which was sufficient to cause death. I saw a bloody razor lying in a chair.

Capt. Nott, of the police, testified that he was called to go to Mr. Greene's house, and arrived there about 9½ o'clock; it was after 11 o'clock when Mr. Greene was found in his room; I first tried a door leading into his room, but found it locked; then went to the back window of the room, ascended to a window by a ladder, broke in a pane of glass, turned back the lock and got into the room; saw Mr. Greene lying on the sofa with his throat cut from ear to ear; I unlocked the door which was locked on the inside, then spoke to Mr. Greene, but he did not reply.

Wm. H. Wyatt, a nephew of Mr. Greene, testified that he left the house to attend church shortly after seven o'clock; Mr. Greene attended church with his wife in the morning, but not in the afternoon or evening; I was at tea with him, but saw nothing unusual during the meal.

A member of the jury here asked Mr. Wyatt if Mr. Greene was sociable at the table. He answered, "O, no."

This closed the testimony, and the following was the JURORS' VERDICT.

That deceased came to her death at about half-past nine o'clock on the evening of the 5th of November, 1865, at the hands of her husband Benjamin W. Greene, who cut her throat with a razor.

A MEETING OF PHYSICIANS AND OTHERS.

A meeting of our most influential citizens and physicians was called on Monday evening at the house of Dr. WILLARD PARKER, to consider with the Hygienic Council the best means for averting the cholera and promoting the sanitary welfare of the city. Reports were presented to the council by Drs. HARRIS and POST in relation to the history of the cholera and the best present means to avert it. The plan laid before the meeting of the council through Dr. POST will be presented hereafter more in detail to the public. It embraces a house-to-house visitation of the poor wards, districted into thirty-one divisions, by physicians employed for this purpose, who will prescribe for those afflicted with the premonitory symptoms. Besides this, cholera dispensaries are to be formed, and "houses of refuge" or tents, where the poor can be placed if it should be necessary to cause their houses to be vacated for the purposes of cleansing them. For this the council desire to raise $50,000. Remarks were also made by Mr. BRACE in regard to his recent visit to England, showing the remarkable results produced on cholera and other diseases by good sanitary arrangements, and urging the passage of the Health Bill. The meeting then organized with Dr. BALLARD in the chair, and C. L. BRACE as Secretary. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. STURGES, EATON, ROOSEVELT, VERMILYE, Dr. BELLOWS, Dr. WARD and others. The plan presented by the Hygienic Council was adopted. The following committees were appointed:

Committee on Legislative Action—D. B. Eaton, W. E. Dodge, Jr., C. R. Agnew, M. D.; Theodore Roosevelt, Col. George Bliss, Jr., C. L. Brace, John A. Weeks, John F. Noyes, J. R. Wood, M. D.; Willard Parker, M. D.

Committee on Finance—Howard Potter, J. C. Green, R. J. Livingston, Peter Cooper, J. S. Schultz, R. A. Witthaus, R. B. Minturn, W. H. Aspinwall, W. A. Booth.

It was resolved to call a large meeting where the interesting results and reports laid before this assembly might be presented in full.

Among those present were Hon. E. D. Morgan, Hon. Mr. Conkling, Jonathan Sturges, Esq., Royal Phelps, Esq., Chas. Kirkland, Esq., E. J. Jaffray, Esq., A. B. Wetmore, Esq., Col. Vermilye, J. Cowper Lord, Esq., Rev. Drs. Chapin, Tyng and Bellows, Drs. Harris, Delafield, Anderson, Stephen Smith, Joseph Smith, Wood, and many others.

Funeral of Mr. John P. Cooke.

The funeral of Mr. JOHN P. COOKE, a prominent and respected member of the musical profession, took place at Trinity Chapel yesterday morning, and was attended by the members of the New-York Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons, in full regalia; the Musical Protective Union; the Philharmonic Society; and by many ladies and gentlemen of the theatrical profession, as well as by the relatives and personal friends of the deceased. There were five officiating clergymen—Rev. Drs. DIX, HAIGHT and WESTON, and Rev. Messrs. NEELY and COOKSON. The music, which was under the direction of Dr. W. H. WALTER, organist of the chapel, included the burial psalm, the Eleventh hymn, the anthem "I heard a voice," and the Dead March in Saul. As the remains were conveyed from the chapel a dirge was performed by a band of 100 pieces.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

MURDER IN THIRTY-NINTH STREET.—At about 8 o'clock yesterday morning JOHN GOODMAN, of No. 139 East Thirty-ninth-street, and DANIEL MCDONALD, otherwise "Yankee Dan," of "Dutch Hill," engaged in a political wrangle in MICHAEL FAY'S liquor-store, at the intersection of Second-avenue and Thirty-ninth-street, and GOODMAN stabbed MCDONALD in the neck with a common pocket-knife. The blade penetrated about three inches, and severed one of the main arteries. MCDONALD'S life-blood spirted forth in a fearful stream, and he died before his friends could reach Bellevue Hospital. GOODMAN fled to STEPHEN GEOGHEGAN'S house, at the intersection of Third-avenue and Fortieth-street, and sought to conceal himself in a bed; but his hiding-place was discovered by Sergt. BARNITT, of the Twenty-first Precinct police, and taken to the Thirty-fifth-street police station, where he was held to await the action of Coroner COLLIN. Both men were under the influence of liquor at the time of the killing, and there had been a quarrel of long standing between them. GOODMAN is said to have threatened to take MCDONALD'S life. An inquest is to be held to-day at Bellevue Hospital.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE FREE CHURCH OF THE REDEMPTION.—On Friday evening a musical entertainment will be given at Irving Hall, in aid of the Protestant Episcopal Free Church of the Redemption, in Fourteenth-street. Mr. CLARE W. BEAMES will officiate as conductor and pianist. The programme, which is well selected, comprises Verdi's "Bella Figlia," which will be rendered by Messrs. BRAINARD and CORDREY, and Messrs. GEARY and LUMBARD, the "Cachouchas Caprice," BALFE'S "Noontide Dream," WALLACE'S "Bird of the Wild Wing"—one of his last compositions—and LOVER'S humorous Irish song, "I'm Not Myself at All." Miss MATILDA TORPY will perform several violin solos, and Mr. DE CORDOVA will give one of his inimitable delineations. Mr. ALFRED H. PEASE, solo pianist, will also assist on the occasion.

FAIR.—A very interesting fair is to be held during Thanksgiving week under the patronage of many most excellent ladies in aid of "The Evangelical Society of France," for which Rev. THEODORE MONOD, of Paris, is now visiting our country. Several cases of goods from France have been already received for its benefit, including large donations of works from LAFFERIN, LEPROVAIT, LIBRESURSE and other French laborers in our mutual cause, with their autographs and photographs. All contributions of the Christian public that may be sent to MRS. SALE, No. 37 East Thirty-seventh-street, will be thankfully accepted.

THE DISTRESS IN ALABAMA.—GOV. PARSONS of Alabama, and Gen. SWAYNE, Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau for that State, met a number of leading citizens of the city Monday afternoon, and set before them the wants of that State. It was said that careful computation showed that if all the food in the State were evenly distributed, it would not any more than feed the people of the State for the next four months, and that many people, and certain regions, were in absolute and great distress. We understand that measures are being taken to hold a public meeting in this city next week, to call public attention to this subject.

ATTEMPTS TO VOTE ILLEGALLY.—Yesterday morning one JOHN REILL, an alleged non-resident, tendered a vote at the Sixth District of the Twenty-first Ward, and was promptly taken before Justice KELLY and committed.... MARTIN COYNE, a minor, having registered by presenting his father's naturalization papers, was arrested for attempting to vote in the Thirteenth District of the Eleventh Ward. Mr. MINETTE S. LEGGETT, Chairman of the Board of Registry in that District, entered complaint before Justice SHANDLEY, and the prisoner was committed.

SALE OF THE REAL ESTATE OF MR. MORRIS KETCHUM.—Messrs. MULLER, WILKINS & Co. sold at auction yesterday the following property of Mr. MORRIS KETCHUM: House and lot northwest corner of Thirty-eighth-street and Fifth-avenue, $101,000; house and lot No. 31 West Thirty-sixth-street, $3,525; stable and lot northerly side of Thirty-ninth-street, $24,250. The house at the corner of Thirty-eighth-street and Fifth-avenue is the one in which Mr. MORRIS KETCHUM now lives.

ESCAPE FROM BLACKWELL'S ISLAND.—On Monday evening WILLIAM CONWAY, a youth of 15 years, escaped from Blackwell's Island by swimming across the East River to Ravenswood. He secreted himself under a bed in a rear room in Mrs. ALLEN'S dwelling, and was there discovered in a state of nudity by Sergt. BURDEN, of the Eighteenth Ward, and taken back to the island.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.—The forty-fifth anniversary of the Mercantile Library Association will be celebrated on Thursday evening at Clinton Hall. The proceedings will be opened by ROBERT WALKER IRWIN, President of the Association. An address will be delivered by WILSON G. HUNT, and an oration by ISAAC H. BAILEY.

PASSING SPURIOUS BANK NOTES.—LORIMER PAYTON, DAVID FOWLER, JOHN WALKER and WILLIAM NELSON, or persons giving these names, were arrested, on Friday night, for attempting to pass in various places several spurious $10 notes purporting to have been uttered by the Albany City Bank. The prisoners were committed by Justice STIMLER.

MR. BARNUM'S ELEPHANT.—The dwarf elephant purchased by Mr. BARNUM'S agent in Europe a few weeks since, and shipped to this port on the Daniel Webster, died on the passage. The hide will be stuffed and placed in one of the principal saloons of the Museum.

Williamsburgh.

AN EARLY VISITOR.—The residence of Mrs. A. HAIGHT, No. 98 South Fourth-street, Williamsburgh, was entered by a burglar about 3 o'clock yesterday morning. He effected an entrance by cutting out a pane of the window beside the front basement door, by means of which he unlocked the door. One of the occupants being in the front basement when he opened the door, gave the alarm, and the house (or rather glass) breaker took to his heels. Owing to his blunder in opening that door, he was discovered before he had secured any booty. The burglar, of course, escaped unharmed.

NEW-JERSEY.

SERVICES COMMEMORATIVE OF THE LATE REV. E. M. DODD.—Exceedingly interesting services were held in Bloomfield, N. J., on Sunday last, commemorative of the late Rev. EDWARD M. DODD, a missionary of the American Board, who died a few weeks since of cholera, in Marsovan, Turkey. Rev. C. E. KNOX, the present pastor of the church of which the deceased was formerly a member, preached an able and eloquent sermon, giving in connection with it a sketch of the life of Mr. DODD; and Dr. WOOD, Secretary of the American Board, followed with some remarks upon the missionary life of the deceased. Measures were initiated to secure the erection of a suitable monument to the memory of Mr. DODD.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

GENERAL NEWS.

The jury in the Sanders conspiracy case, which was recently on trial in Montreal, were discharged on Monday, the Judge specially remanding the prisoners to jail till the March term. Judge MONDELET addressed the jurors in very strong language. He told them in substance either that they were too ignorant to understand the evidence or they have perjured themselves, as the case was not one admitting of doubt. From the subsequent conversation between the Judge and Mr. RAMSAY, the papers say they suspect some tampering with jurors.

The Philadelphia Ledger reports a meeting of merchants held in that city on Monday, to devise means to get a larger share of Southern trade. Complaints that the trade was concentrating at New-York were long and loud. A committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions to stock to establish steamship lines communicating with Southern ports.

Hon. A. H. STEPHENS is expected to visit Milledgeville and address the Georgia State Convention before its adjournment. The movement to nominate Mr. STEPHENS for Governor seems to be gaining strength, and the Atlanta New Era intimates that he has consented to the use of his name.

The Second Baptist Church in Richmond has unanimously called Rev. Hon. J. L. M. CURRY, of Alabama, to be its pastor. Mr. CURRY represented Alabama in the National Congress before the war, and while it was in progress held a seat in the rebel Congress. Since the close of the war he has been preaching.

A dispatch to the Savannah Republican, dated Columbia, S. C., on the 1st inst., says that EX.-Gov. Q. L. MANNING has been elected United States Senator for the short term ending 1867, and that Hon. B. F. DUNKIN has been elected Chief Justice, to fill the vacancy of Judge O'NEALE.

The Captain-General of Cuba has tendered to the British Consul-General troops and war vessels, to assist the authorities in putting down the insurrection in Jamaica. The war vessels were accepted, and two of them sailed on the 31st ult. for the scene of the disturbances.

It has been ascertained by the gentlemen engaged in the compilation of medical statistics, that the mortality in the army hospitals throughout the country during the rebellion amounted to but nine per cent. of the admissions. The proportion in the English army in the Crimean campaign was fifty per cent.

Maj. GEE, of the rebel army, arrested in Florida, arrived in Washington Sunday, and was committed to the Old Capitol by order of the Secretary of War.

Hereafter, all vessels arriving at Portland, Me., from ports infected with cholera, or having cholera on board, will be detained in quarantine until cleared by the physician.

FROM EUROPE.

The steamship Cuba arrived yesterday at Halifax, with two days later news from Europe. The London papers discuss the reconstructed Cabinet. The tone of the Times is unfriendly to Earl RUSSELL, and it appears to be the general impression that the new arrangement will not last long. The arrests of Fenians continue, but the excitement is decreasing. Continental news is of little importance.

LOCAL NEWS.

Yesterday the Secretary of the Treasury placed a revenue cutter at the disposal of the Commissioners of Quarantine, in order to aid in the enforcement of quarantine regulations. Drs. SAYRE, SWINBURNE and several other medical gentlemen inspected the vessels yesterday, and will make a full report to the Commissioners of Health, probably to-day.

At the live stock markets the supply of animals for butchering purposes has not been so large, nor the quality of the supply as good as last week. The cattle especially were in very ordinary condition for the market—a marked contrast with the quality of the supplies during the last month. Transactions began active on Monday morning, and before night most of the stock was cleared out of the yards. About 9c. @ lb., net weight, was the highest figures paid by butchers, and even this was received for only a few lots. A large number were bought up for store cattle at 10c.@12c. @ lb., net. Milch cows have declined $10 @ head, on an average supply. Veals are in request at last week's rates, or 10c.@14c. @ lb. Sheep and lambs have advanced fully ¾c. @ lb., and are of better comparative quality than any other kind of stock offered this week. Live hogs sell quick at an advance of ¾c. @ lb., or 13¾c.@14c. live weight.

The Stock Exchange continued excited yesterday on the Railway speculation. Government Securities dull and quiet. Money easy at 7 @ cent. Gold 147¼. Exchange 108¾@109.

An improved demand prevailed for the principal kinds of Produce and Merchandise yesterday. Flour, Wheat, Corn, Pork, and Whisky were dearer. Cotton was cheaper. Freights were somewhat brisker.

A FALSE ALARM.—Brig.-Gen. JOHN A. GREEN, who ushered Maj.-Gen. SLOCUM from the Republican ranks into the Democratic fold, has a salutary horror of party disloyalty on the part of his own friends. Hence he wrote the following letter to Judge DEAN, whom he supposed to be running for State Senator as a Republican:

SYRACUSE, Oct. 25, 1865.

DEAR JUDGE: I am sorry to see that you are a candidate for Senator in New-York City on the Republican ticket. Our friends feel disappointed at your acceptance. What does it mean? Yours, truly,

JOHN A. GREEN.

His soul was speedily comforted by receiving the following reply:

No. 76 WALL-STREET, N. Y., Oct. 30, 1865.

MY DEAR FRIEND: I don't "C." it. My name is GILBERT—the candidate is GILBERT C. DEAN, who has not been a member of the Democratic party since I have known him.

I do not live in the Senatorial District of which he is the nominee. I have often been spoken to by acquaintances who were, like you, laboring under a delusion of mistaken identity—but never thought it of sufficient importance to publicly correct it.

Hoping that the voters of the State will sustain the true Union policy of President JOHNSON, by electing the ticket headed by the gallant leader of the left wing of SHERMAN'S grand march, Major-Gen. SLOCUM,

I remain, your friend, GILBERT DEAN.

Gen. JOHN A. GREEN.

We commend this correspondence to the perusal of Gen. SLOCUM. He may learn from it the real sentiments of his new friends, on the subject of deserting one's old party, for the purpose of receiving office at the hands of another.

The Result.

We have the gratification of announcing glorious Republican victories yesterday in

NEW-YORK,

and in every other State in which an election was held.

The restoration of New-Jersey to the Union will be hailed with joy by every loyal heart. It is too late this morning for further writing.

The City.

The Democratic majority of 1864 in this city was yesterday cut down more than one-third, or from 37,000 to 24,000. The following is the vote for Secretary of State by wards:

Result of the State Election.

We hope Mr. MONTGOMERY BLAIR feels better. We trust he will return to the bosom of the Blair family a wiser if not a better man. We hope JOHN VAN BUREN is satisfied that the people of this State have not the slightest inclination to force him again into the same hole he came out of twenty years ago. We hope Messrs. SLOCUM, ROBINSON & Co. are content with the rewards they receive for deserting the party that has trusted them hitherto, and for consenting under temptations of office to betray it into the hands of its enemies. And we commend to the Democratic leaders at large the lesson inculcated by this election, that no party which discards all show of honesty, and trades wholly on stolen capital, can command the confidence or secure the indorsement of the people of this State.

The Democrats made a desperate clutch at the offices of the State and the exclusive confidence of President JOHNSON. They have gained neither. The people did not believe their protestations, or if they did, they did not see in them any reason for placing the power of the State in their hands. If they were honest in pretending to support the President, they can give that support out of office as well as in. Their warfare upon the only party which has supported him hitherto, was not calculated to win confidence in their sincerity. The result shows that it only inspired distrust and strengthened the Union party which they sought to overthrow.

In their defeat the Democrats have the consolation of knowing that President JOHNSON and his policy have received the hearty and emphatic indorsement of the people of this State. The Union party has not been driven a hair's breadth from its position. Neither the clamorous claims, the flagrant misrepresentations, nor the arrogant menaces of its opponents have shaken its purpose or cooled its ardor in the least degree. It resolved in State Convention to support the President and his policy of reconstruction; and upon that platform it has carried the State by a majority three times as large as was given for LINCOLN and JOHNSON in the Presidental election a year ago. If the Democrats were sincere in their professions they have no reason to regret this result. It will give fresh and powerful support to the policy they profess to admire. It will strengthen the President in his position and give him renewed assurance of popular support, in the great work he has so auspiciously begun.

We trust the Democrats will not withdraw the support they have pledged the President on account of the defeat they have suffered. That defeat implies no hostility to the principles they have proclaimed, but only distrust of their professions. Let them vindicate themselves against this distrust. They have now a splendid opportunity to prove that they were thoroughly in earnest. Adversity alone tries the good faith of parties as well as individuals. If they had been triumphant, their motives would always have been open to suspicion, for men are never charitable in judging of professed conversions accompanied by great rewards. If they adhere to the President now, in the face of defeat, they will silence calumny and compel the confidence and admiration of an incredulous world. Nous verrons!

Preliminary Organization of the House of Representatives.

In his Brooklyn speech last week, Hon. GEORGE T. CURTIS referred at some length to the probable action of the Clerk of the last House of Representatives in preparing the roll of members of the new House, which is to meet next month. He spoke of it as the "culminating point" on which the question of reconstruction is to turn, and said he should vote for the so-called Democratic ticket "in order that the voice of this great State may be given against the risk of having the Constitution violated in the preliminary organization of the House;" and he volunteered to the Clerk this very sensible advice on the subject:

"The culminating point on which this matter is first to turn will be the action of the Clerk of the last House of Representatives in preparing the list of the members elect of the new House. It is given out—I know not on what authority—that the gentleman who held the office of Clerk of the last House intends not to place upon the list the names of any persons returned as members of the new House from any State that has been in rebellion. If the Clerk, Mr. MCPHERSON, means to act wisely, I should advise him to seek the opinion of some constitutional lawyer who is above being influenced in his legal opinions by his political affinities, and to act upon the opinion that may be given to him. It may save him much future tribulation."

We believe that Mr. CURTIS is such a lawyer as he describes,—and we should be very glad to ask his legal opinion on this point,—which is certainly important, though less vital, in our judgment, than he represents it to be. Let us first state the facts.

The present Congress has never yet been in session, and consequently it has neither Speaker, Clerk, nor other officers. Its members come together simply as individuals, and but for some special law, nobody would have strictly any special right to call the roll, make a motion, put a question, or take any other step toward an organization of the House. This defect has been supplied by a law, passed March 3, 1863, which reads thus:

"That before the first meeting of next Congress, and of every subsequent Congress, the Clerk of the next preceding House of Representatives shall make a roll of the Representatives elect, and place thereon the names of all persons, and of such persons only, whose credentials show that they were regularly elected in accordance with the laws of their States respectively, or the laws of the United States."

Mr. MCPHERSON was the Clerk of the last House of Representatives; but he has nothing whatever to do with this House except to perform the specific duty assigned to him by this act. He is to make a roll of the Representatives elect; and he is to place upon it the names of such persons as may present credentials showing a certain fact, which is definitely and distinctly described,—namely, that they were "regularly elected in accordance with the laws of their States respectively, or the laws of the United States." The only law which gives the Clerk any power at all in this matter, requires him to do that specific act. He can do it only by inspecting the credentials and seeing whether they do, or do not "show" that these members were thus elected. It is not to be supposed that he can go beyond the credentials themselves, or assume to disregard or overrule anything which they actually contain; if the credentials presented to him by any member, being duly attested, certify that the member was elected "in accordance with the laws of his State," or with "the laws of the United States," that certificate is undoubtedly such a "showing" as would require him to enter the holder's name upon the roll. But if the credentials do not embody such a certificate—if they merely certify that the member was elected in pursuance, not of any law, either State or national, but of a proclamation by a Provisional Governor, or some other officer not authorized by law to order such an election, can the Clerk enter the name upon the roll without violating the law under which alone he acts at all? This is the main point to be decided.

But Mr. CURTIS intimates that such action if authorized by the law would violate the constitution, and this the Clerk must not do; he says:

"Now this law is of course to be construed and applied in conformity with and obedience to the constitution, which makes the HOUSE ITSELF the 'judge of the ELECTIONS, RETURNS and QUALIFICATIONS of its own members.' The law, therefore, cannot be construed to vest in the Clerk any authority to look into the credentials and to decide upon what he finds there, any question whatever relating to the election, the return, or the qualifications of the members who present them. The credentials must come before the House; and it is in order that they may get before the House, and that there may be a House to perform the preliminary function of 'judging,' that the Clerk is directed to make the roll of members presenting credentials."

Precisely—and the law in question provides for the performance of that "preliminary function," and for nothing more. It directs who shall constitute "a House" to perform it, by prescribing what facts their credentials must "show." Those persons whose credentials, upon inspection by the clerk, do show those facts, shall form the House which is to "judge of the elections, returns and qualifications" of all the members, including those whose credentials do not show them. The law, therefore, has nothing whatever to do with the provision of the constitution referred to. It merely paves the way for the execution of the duty, for the exercise of that judgment, which the constitution imposes upon the House. Some law, or some usage having the force of law, seems absolutely essential to the creation of a House for the performance of what Mr. CURTIS very accurately styles this "preliminary function of judging;" and the law which has been enacted certainly cannot violate the constitution, inasmuch as its force is wholly spent before the constitutional provision can come into play at all.

This question is one of considerable importance, and merits discussion. The law is precise in its terms, and we do not see how Mr. MCPHERSON can do otherwise than act precisely as those terms require. The only doubt which the case admits, is as to the scope and meaning of the phrase "in accordance with the laws of the States or the laws of the United States." In some Southern States, we believe, the elections for members of Congress have been held in pursuance of an act of the Legislature; members shown by their credentials to have been thus elected, would seem to be clearly entitled to their seats. In others they may have been elected under the action of State Conventions or of Provisional Governors,—and it may be a question whether such elections were held "in accordance with laws" either of the State or of the United States. It may be unwise to decide this with too much regard to mere technicality,—and it certainly would be unsafe to decide it with too great freedom of construction. Meantime Mr. MCPHERSON will probably, and we shall certainly, be glad to hear whatever Mr. CURTIS or any other "constitutional lawyer who is above being influenced in his legal opinions by his political affinities," may have to say about it.

A MATTER FOR THE SOUTH.—There is no doubt that the general operations of the Freedmen's Bureau have been eminently favorable to the restoration of order and labor in the Southern States. The existence of the Bureau was limited by Act of Congress to one year after the termination of the war, so that, unless further special legislation is taken by the coming Congress, it will cease to exist next Spring. In the meantime the Legislatures of all the Southern States which will be in session this Winter—and they will all be in session except those of Florida and Texas—should promptly take up the question of the Freedmen's rights and relations, and establish such laws and regulations as are demanded by justice and humanity. It would be much better that the whole matter should be in the hands of the Southern people and the respective States; and if they evince a purpose to treat the question as the circumstances demand, Congress will leave it entirely to their jurisdiction, by taking no measures for perpetuating the existence of the Freedmen's Bureau.

THE CITY HEALTH.—There seems now little danger of the cholera becoming epidemic among us this Winter. It is a week since the Atalanta arrived in our harbor with the disease on board, but even on the ship it has not spread, and no cases are reported in the city or suburbs. A single case was reported in Brooklyn, but it turned out not to be Asiatic cholera. Otherwise New-York is about in its usual health, which is not saying much in its favor. Typhus is chronic, in a large and profound sense, and will continue to be so until law can be effectively brought to bear upon the tenement houses, the streets and the drainage. We earnestly hope that will be before the arrival of next Spring; and we trust that, in view of what may be anticipated in the future, parties will be able to agree upon some intelligent legislation applicable to our case.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

TWO DAYS LATER BY THE CUBA AT HALIFAX.

The Funeral of Lord Palmerston—The London Press on the Reconstructed Cabinet—The Trouble Between the German Powers and the Frankfort Senate.

HALIFAX, Tuesday, Nov. 7.

The steamship Cuba, Capt. STONE, which left Liverpool at 1 P. M. on the 28th ult., and Queenstown on the 29th, arrived at this port at 9:30 this evening. She has 37 passengers for Halifax and 140 for Boston.

The Cuba experienced heavy weather the entire passage. She had a heavy gale from Liverpool to Queenstown, where she arrived at 6 P. M. on Sunday.

On Nov. 1 the Cuba passed the steamship China, in lat. 51, lon. 21, bound east.

The Cuba sails from Halifax about 4 o'clock to-morrow morning, for Boston, where she will be due Thursday noon.

Among the Cuba's passengers for Halifax was Hon. Mr. FENWICK WILLIAMS, the new Governor of Nova Scotia.

The steamship City of Limerick, for New-York, was to sail at 2 P. M. on the same day on which the Cuba left.

The steamship Lafayette, from New-York, arrived at Brest on the 25th.

The steamship Persia, from New-York, arrived at Crookhaven at 8 P. M. on the 27th.

GREAT BRITAIN.

FUNERAL OF LORD PALMERSTON.

PALMERSTON was buried in state at Westminster Abbey on the 27th. The Queen and Cabinet were present, and Parliament and the diplomatic body were largely represented. Immense crowds thronged the streets through which the funeral procession passed. Business was partially suspended in most parts of the country. The proceedings passed off satisfactorily.

THE NEW CABINET.

The Times accepts the reconstructed Cabinet as a necessity. It acknowledges that Earl RUSSELL has some genius and a deal of political experience, but regrets that it should be necessary to recur to a politician more than 70 years old.

The Times would rather have another Premier; but is content to admit for the time that RUSSELL is inevitable. The Premier should be chosen from the Commons, especially when so many have been peers. The Times cannot look upon the arrangement as long lived. The state wants new blood.

The Star says: "We are about to have a Cabinet the leading member of which is pledged by precedent and the one great purpose of his whole life to reform."

The Advertiser thinks RUSSELL'S Ministry may be suffered to exist, and that will be all, until the meeting of Parliament.

The Daily News, in a friendly article, points out the difficulties of the position, and says if the Ministry is once more to lay claim to a definite policy the Cabinet must speak with the sense of having the support of the country, and it is impossible to do this effectually unless a superabundance of ministerial influence lies in the representative chamber. Nothwithstanding difficult and delicate points the position of the government in the House of Commons is far too unsatisfactory to afford their consideration being indefinitely postponed.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES IN LIVERPOOL.

Great preparations were being made at Liverpool to give the Prince and Princess of WALES a suitable reception on the occasion of their anticipated visit on the 31st.

FENIANISM.

Arrests were still being made of supposed Fenians, on the arrival of American steamers at Queenstown. A passenger by the City of Limerick, named ALFRED M. WILLIAMS, who stated that he was connected with the Tribune, was arrested. Only a revolver, some ammunition, and a notebook, containing the names and residences of a number of persons, were found on him. He was detained by the police.

THE CATTLE DISEASE.

It was reported that the cattle disease was abating in London.

FRANCE.

The departure of the Court for Compiegne was postponed. The Emperor and Empress had determined not to leave Paris until after the entire disappearance of the cholera.

The Emperor visited two military hospitals on the 26th.

The Paris papers were enthusiastic about the visit of the Empress to the hospitals, and her personal kindness to the patients.

The rumor of the resignation of M. FOULD was contradicted.

It was asserted that there was a great probability of the reduction of the budget of expenditures by thirty millions of francs.

The Patrie says the sanitary condition of Paris has much improved the last few days.

The Empress had addressed a private letter of condolence to Lady PALMERSTON.

The Paris Bourse on the 27th was heavy. Rentes closed at 67f. 95c.

FRANKFORT.

The Senate had addressed an identical note to the great German Powers energetically rejecting the demands made upon it. The note of the Senate cites the federal constitution, which allows no member of the German Confederation arbitrary intervention against the sovereign rights of the other German States.

Vienna papers state that the Senate's reply has greatly offended the Austrian Foreign Minister on account of its forms and contents.

It was asserted that Austria and Prussia had already agreed on certain propositions to be submitted to the Federal Diet on the question.

The Abendpost points out that Austria has followed the path of federal rights in the steps taken by her on the question, and that she will not abandon it whatever further progress the affair may make.

AUSTRIA.

The rumor that Count MENSDORF, had tendered his resignation and would be replaced by Count RECHBERG, was contradicted.

SWITZERLAND.

The National Council was proceeding with the revision of the constitution. They had proclaimed that the free exercise of religion would be permitted to all religious communities. An article admitting priests to the council was rejected.

ROME.

The correspondence of the Pall Mall Gazette states that the Count DE SARTIGES had informed the Pope that the evacuation by the French troops would commence on the 1st of November. The Count DE SARTIGES, in his interview with the Pope, announced that the Italian Government would renew negotiations with the Holy See as soon as the elections were completed.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

BARING BROTHERS report considerable fluctuation in American securities. Closing quotations were: Five-twenties, 63@63¼; Erie Shares, 54¾@55¼; Illinois Shares, 82@82½.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Money in fair demand, bank rates remaining at 7. The Bank and Stock Exchange were closed on the 27th.

The Daily News says that favorable bank returns had inspired more confidence in financial circles, although there was not enough business to test the extent of the improvement.

MARKETS.

The weekly Liverpool Cotton market was received per steamship Peruvian.

TRADE REPORT.

The market for Goods and Yarn is very dull, and the advance at Liverpool had no effect.

LIVERPOOL BREADSTUFFS MARKET.

Messrs. RICHARDSON, SPENCE & Co., and others report: FLOUR firm and advanced 1s. per barrel. WHEAT firmer and advanced 2d.@3d. per centum; Winter Red 9s. 10d.@10s. 4d. CORN firmer and advanced 6d. per quarter; mixed 28s. @29s. 6d. The above advances in quotations have taken place since Tuesday's markets.

LIVERPOOL PROVISION MARKET.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—"Crispino" attracted another overwhelming audience last evening, proving, as we have already declared, that it is the success of the season, and should be kept on the bills until the public fondness for it is in some way abated. The performance was in every way perfect. It is a treat to hear a work so deliciously rendered.

To-night VERDI'S best opera, "Rigoletto," will be performed. The cast promises a fine rendition. It includes the names of Mlle. ORTOLANI, Miss ADELAIDE PHILLIPS, Signor MAZZOLENI, Signor BELLINI, etc.

The Approaching Trial of Jefferson Davis.

What the President Said to a Deputation of Ladies.

CAPT. WIRZ SENTENCED TO DEATH

The Day of Execution Fixed for Next Friday.

The Prisoner's Demeanor on Hearing the Warrant Read.

Gen. Longstreet Takes the Amnesty Oath.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Nov. 7.

THE TRIAL OF JEFFERSON DAVIS.

The National Intelligencer, in noticing a visit to the President, yesterday, of a delegation of ladies from Baltimore, and the presentation of a petition, numerously signed, seeking the clemency of the Executive in behalf of JEFFERSON DAVIS, says:

"The interview was a protracted one and of the most agreeable character, and the fair petitioners left the city, carrying with them the most pleasurable impressions of the President.

In declining, the President regretted that the sectional character of the question restrained all private sympathy which they might have awakened in him and made the important statement that complete arrangements have been made for the early legal trial of Mr. DAVIS, according to the laws of the land."

FURTHER RUMORS.

A new crop of rumors concerning JEFF. DAVIS and the government have lately been put in circulation. Some prophesy pardon, and others expatriation. But we assure the readers of the TIMES that nothing has occurred to change the determination of the government arrived at sixty days ago, and announced in these dispatches at the time, viz.: that he will be tried for treason in the highest civil court having jurisdiction in his case. In further confirmation of these facts, this evening's Republican, having the highest authority for it, makes the following statement:

"We are able to state positively that it is the settled purpose of the government to give JEFFERSON DAVIS a fair and impartial trial before a jury of his peers, in the highest tribunal of the land having jurisdiction over such criminal cases. It is but just to state that the delay of the trial cannot be attributed to any act on the part of the President of the United States."

WIRZ SENTENCED TO BE HANGED.

Yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, Gen. AUGUR, commanding the Department of Washington, accompanied by Major RUSSELL, Provost-Marshal, and Capt. GEORGE B. WALBRIDGE, commandant of the Old Capitol Prison, proceeded to Capt. WIRZ'S room, and having informed him of his unpleasant errand, read to him the death sentence, and the time fixed for his execution, namely, Friday next, between the hours of six in the morning and noon. The prisoner listened to the reading with much apparent composure, when Gen. AUGUR asked him whether he had anything to say, to which question the prisoner replied, "I have nothing to say, except that I desire to state to you that I am innocent of the charges brought against me." Having been asked about his wife, he remarked that she was in Kentucky, and hardly could come here in time, beside he did not wish her to witness the trouble in which she would be plunged at seeing him in his extremity.

The prisoner made a request that Rev. Father BOYLE and LOUIS SCHADE, Esq., of his counsel, should be sent for, which was granted. Before the officers retired, Capt. WIRZ is represented as saying: "I have been persecuted, and if there is such a thing as a spirit coming back to earth, I'll come back to persecute those who have perjured themselves to hang me."

To-day Father BOYLE, who had previously visited him during his imprisonment, was in attendance, and talked to him long and earnestly with reference to his spiritual interests.

In the afternoon Mr. SCHADE called to see the prisoner, who informed him that last night he slept better than he had at any time since he was brought to Washington. He was glad to be out of suspense, for he had desired to know his fate. Three days ago he prepared a letter to be sent to President JOHNSON, requesting his decision at once to relieve him of all anxiety. He made up his mind to suffer, but his anguish was now over and he had no fear to meet his Maker, knowing that he was to be made a sacrifice to suffer for the deeds of others. He felt resigned, and believed that in all instances justice would be done to him hereafter. He stated that Father BOYLE had asked him to forgive all who had testified against him, and who, Capt. WIRZ said, had perjured themselves in his case. Capt. WIRZ replied that though he was given up to die, he could not conscientiously do so, as he was opposed to his lips uttering a sentiment of forgiveness that did not come from his heart in humility. His lips must utter forgiveness of his persecutors, but he could not be a hypocrite at heart. Mr. SCHADE asked Capt. WIRZ if he desired any money, he being in feeble health and fed on prison fare. The prisoner said he had only three days to live, $3 would be sufficient, which amount Mr. SCHADE handed to the officers in charge to be given to the prisoner.

THE NEW-YORK ELECTION.

The returns from the New-York election were received by a large crowd at the TIMES office to-night with great enthusiasm. A pardoned rebel or two dropped in and tried to figure out SEYMOUR'S election from his relative losses in New-York city, but the Union men didn't see it. Massachusetts and Wisconsin were also received with cheers, and he was in going over the door-sill, dropped this very horrible pun: "Our Democratic favors from Massachusetts are Couched in d—d small figures."

TAXES.

The question of refunding taxes on gross receipts which have been paid by hackmen and cartmen, having arisen, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has answered it by saying that, "Inasmuch as the decision exempting hackmen and cartmen does not dismisses Gen. Brisco from the service; the imprisonment adjudged by the court-martial is remitted on account of the services of Brisco in the field.

The returns received from the towns show a Union gain.

Cochrane (Union) is elected to the Assembly from the city district by about 1,000 majority. Last year the Democrats carried the district by 500 majority.

Tremain (Union) is elected to the Assembly from the Second District by at least 900 majority.

Crawford (Democrat) is elected to the Assembly from the Fourth District, and Aley (Democrat) from the First District.

The Senator is in doubt.

Shafer's (Dem.,) majority in the city is only 260. The Union gains may overcome this, and elect Collins. (Union.)

Winnie, (Union,) for County Clerk, has a majority of 600—a gain for him of over 3,000. This secures his election.

The Argus concedes the election of the Union ticket by a largely increased majority.

STOCKBRIDGE—Madison County—Barlow 87 majority

TROY, Tuesday, Nov. 7.

The City of Troy gives Barlow 12 majority. Last year Seymour had 201 majority.

SYRACUSE, Tuesday, Nov. 7.

Returns from the town of Watertown show a Republican majority of 178, and a Republican gain over last year of 10.

Cortland County will give about 1,600 majority for the Union ticket.

A Letter from President Lincoln.

The following letter from President LINCOLN, written before he was nominated for the Presidency, has just been brought to light:

SPRINGFIELD, May 17, 1859.

Dr. Theodore Canisius:

DEAR SIR: Your note asking in behalf of yourself and other German citizens, whether I am for or against the constitutional provision in regard to naturalized citizens lately adopted by Massachusetts, and whether I am for or against a fusion of the Republicans and other opposition elements for the canvass of 1860, is received.

"Massachusetts is a sovereign and independent State, and it is no privilege of mine to scold her for what she does. Still, if from what she has done an inference is sought to be drawn as to what I would do, I may, without impropriety, speak out—I say then, that, as I understand the Massachusetts provision, I am against its adoption in Illinois, or in any other place where I have a right to oppose it. Understanding the spirit of our institutions to aim at the elevation of men, I am opposed to whatever tends to degrade them. I have some little notoriety for commiserating the oppressed condition of the negro; and I should be strangely inconsistent if I could favor any project for curtailing the existing rights of white men, even though born in different lands, and speaking different languages from myself.

As to the matter of fusion, I am for it, if it can be had on republican ground, and I am not for it on any other terms. A fusion on any other terms would be as foolish as unprincipled. It would lose the whole North, while the common enemy would still carry the whole South. The question of men is a different one. There are good patriotic men and able statesmen in the South, whom I would cheerfully support, if they would now place themselves upon Republican ground. But I am against letting down the Republican standard a hair's breadth.

I have written this hastily, but I believe it answers your questions substantially.

Yours, truly,

A. LINCOLN.

Distinguished Visitors in Boston.

"GOV. PARSONS of Alabama, Gen. SWAYNE, &c., pose of conferring with loyal and patriotic gentlemen in relation to matters affecting the general welfare, particularly in the South. He is earnestly and sincerely laboring for the restoration of the Union, and is entitled to confidence and respect."

COMPLEXION.—It is an impossibility for any person afflicted with a diseased liver, or with any disorder of the digestive organs, to have a good or clear complexion. "Hoofland's German Bitters" will remove all disease from the liver and digestive organs, and by thus giving health and strength to those organs, remove that sallowness of appearance and roughness of the skin noticed in so many. The Bitters is not a beverage.—Philadelphia Exchange.

THE GREAT VICTORY

chances of success of the various candidates were of course freely discussed. Men bet greenbacks, boys bet peanuts on their favorites. The operations of the Registry Law offered a never-ending subject of discussion. The Democrats appeared to be, for some reason not particularly clear, entirely opposed to it. "This law," said a resident of the Second Ward, "was evidently intended to choke off the Democratic vote. It's only of another piece with the census swindle. At the last Presidential election our district (the first) cast 144 votes for McCLELLAN, and now the district only gives, according to that bulletin, 147 votes in all. Can anything be plainer than that this law was meant to kill the Democrats?" "But," said a Republican, "the law bears just as hard on us as on you. Our vote in that district for LINCOLN was 127, and now we only give BARLOW 66. You see the proportion is about the same. Besides, you must look at the good effect of the law. This time voters had not to wait for hours before they could get a chance to deposit their ballots. You just went up and voted. Last year many were kept away from the polls altogether, and there's no doubt many illegal ballots were cast. This year there will be few votes given that are not legal." The Democrat, however, could not be made to see it in this light, and went away grumbling that his party had been robbed of many thousand votes by the new Registry Law.

In the meantime the returns came steadily in, the Slocum men cheering lustily as some big majority went up for their favorite candidate. Occasionally, however, as in some districts of the more aristocratic wards, the figures made the Slocum men wince. It soon became evident that the Democratic majorities were being greatly reduced, the returns from some of their strongholds showing a terrible falling off. Wagers were offered, with but few takers, that the Democratic majority in this city would be reduced 12,000. In fact, not a few of the loudest-mouthed Democrats became disgusted with the returns and retired at an early hour. Others flitted from one newspaper office to another only to find their worst fears realized. Some rushed over to Tammany Hall for comfort in their afflictions. A few declared that the official returns would show a very different state of facts, and that the bulletins could not possibly be true.

A few practical jokes were played off during the evening. A man rushed into a newspaper office in Nassau-street and informed those assembled that Gen. SLOCUM had arrived at the Astor House and was going to make a speech. Not a few left and went over to the Astor only to find that they had been sold. This joke was tried again during the evening, but it did not succeed. As a general thing the throngs were very orderly and the night was cool enough to admit of very animated discussions taking place without the blood of the disputants becoming greatly heated.

Up to midnight the crowds rather increased than otherwise, but after that hour they began to thin out, the weary watchers retiring to their couches to await the full returns presented in the TIMES this morning.

FROM TROY.

A Mistake Made in Printing the Democratic State Ticket.

TROY, N. Y., Tuesday, Nov. 7.

All the Democratic State tickets for this county are printed with the name of EDWIN O. PERRIN for Clerk of the Court of Appeals omitted.

The tickets were ordered and printed at the Argus office, with instructions to add the State ticket, as printed at the Argus office, to the county ticket.

At 8 o'clock this morning it was discovered that PERRIN'S name was omitted from the ticket, but too late to remedy the error, except to a partial extent, as the tickets had been distributed throughout the county.

This error will cost Mr. PERRIN from 8,000 to 10,000 votes in this (Rensellaer) county.
